The World's Seven Wonders.

The seven worders of the world are: The Pyramids, the Collossus of Rhodes, Diana's Temple at Ephesus, the Pharos of Alexandria, the Hanging Gardens at Babylon, the Sistus of the Olympian Jove and the Mausoleum by Artemisia at Halicarcassus. The Pyramids are rumerous, and space forbids any biog like even a list of them. The great piles were constituate JET AND BEADED CAPES ed of blocks of red or syenicio granite, and of a hard calcarcous stone. These blocks were of extraordinary dimensions, and their transportation to the sites of the pyramids and their adjustment in their places, indicate a surprising degree of mechanical skill. The Great P.ramid covers an . rea of between twelve and thirteen acres. The masonry consisted or goally of 88 028 000 cubic feet, and still amounts to about 82 111 000 feet. The present vertical weight is 450 teet, against 479 feet originally, and the ur sout length of the sides is 746 feet, agains: 754 teet originals. The cotal weight of the stos- is estimated at 6 316 000 000 tors the city of Rhodes was beseiged by D matrius Poliorcetes, King of Macidon, but, aided by Ptolemy Soror, King of Egipt, the enemy were repulsed. To express their gratitude to and from this statement it has been calculated its weight was 720,000 pounds. The Temple of Dians, at Ephoeus, was built at the common charge of all the Aristic States. The chief ar chirect was Chersipon, and Piny says that 220 years were employed in completing the termile, whose riches were immense, It was 425 feet long 225 pros i, and was supported by 127 c umus of Pariso marole [sixty feet high, each weigh tog 150 tots | furnish d by as many kings. The temple was again bul , and once more burned by the Goths in their caval inves on A. D. 256 the Pastos of Alexaudria and the Hanging Gardens were described recently. The colessal aracute of Ju piter to the temple of O ympia, at Eis. was by Phidias. It was in gold and ivory, and sat enthroned in the temple for 800 years, and was fically descroyed by fire about A. D 475 From the best information it is believed that the Mansoleom at Holicarpassus was a rectargular building surrounded by an Ioois portion of thirty-six columns, and surmounted by a pyramid, ri-ing in twenty-four steps, upon the summit of which was a chossal marble quadries with a statue of Mausolus, This mage fic. as

The cable Fild y mace the important announcement that the Prussian Ecoric Railway, from Berlin to Lickterfeld, was opened on the 12th, in the presence of numerous scientists and officials, and was "a perfect success." More than a year ago, when the plan of its projuctor, Dr. Werner Siemens, of Berlin, was published, we anticipated this triumph in the application of electricity as a railway motor. In his plan the rails are insulated from the earth by wooden sleepers and are in electrical connection with a dynamo electric machine worked by steam power at a station. A magneto electric machine on the driving carriage or locomotive is so fixed and connected with the exle of one pair of wheels as to impart motion to it, the driving axle being severed electrically by introducing an insulated washer; and a our rent of electricity, passed along one rail to work the magneto electric machine on the lecomotive, retures by the other rail to the stationary machine on the ground. The preliminary tests of the new locomotive led Dr. Siemens to confidence of success and the belief that his electric railway had a large future, especially for mint entrances, tunnels and intermunicipal traffic, and its smokeless feature has breught it into notice for the St. Gothard Tuopel. But like other iaventions of the kind it is probably destined to much wider fields of u ility. Professor Ayrton io his Sheffield address has shown that eleo trieslenergy can be transmitted through long distances by means of small wires well tusulated and that very large wires are not needed. It has therefore been seriously suggested by electricians that a machine at Niagara Falls utalizing the vas: store water power there wasted to generate electricity might be connected by wires with a machine at New York to receive the electicity and give out mechanical work here ad libitum. Whether this is ever done or not the principle is sound and its demonstration would establish the immense possibilities of electric motors. As the first cost of electric railways is smaller than that of steam roads, the rails and rolling stock lighter Is Agent for ALLEN & CO.'S RICHMOND and the bridges less costly, their extensive introduction, a. lees: in suburban dis ricis and belween poins not remote, seems now to be assured by the success realized at Berlin on Thursday. -N.
